

I sought and found; I purified (it) often,

I mixed (it) and caused (it) to mature.

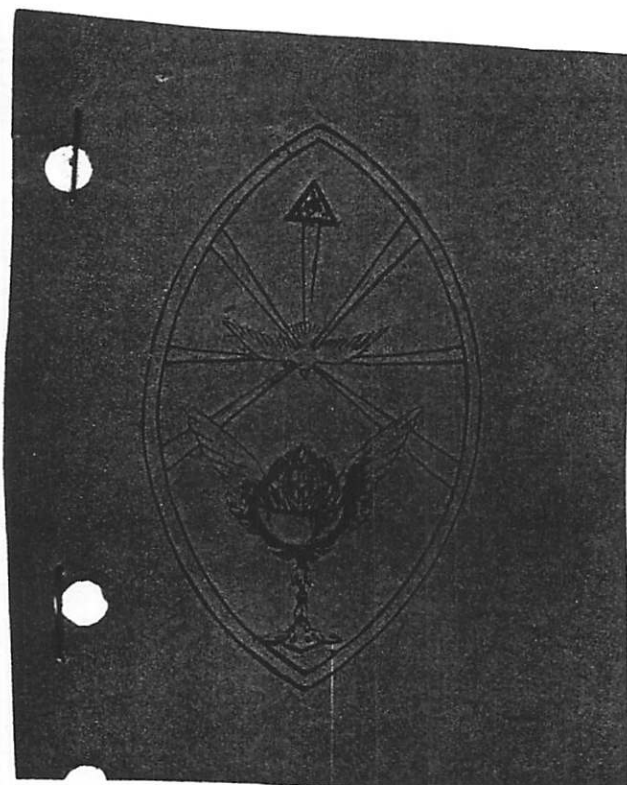

The golden tincture was the result; it is called the center of Nature;

The origin of all that, and of all the books of men and of various figures.

I now acknowledge freely, it is a panacea

For all the metals, the weak ones (in the constitution of man)

And a point which originated from God.

I sought and found; I purified (it) often,

I mixed (it) and caused (it) to mature.

The golden tincture was the result; it is called the center of Nature;

The origin of all that, and of all the books of men and of various figures.

I now acknowledge freely, it is a panacea

For all the metals, the weak ones (in the constitution of man)

And a point which originated from God.

